About NOM NOM

NOM NOM is a recipe sharing web application that allows you to store all of your favourite recipes together in a nice, convenient place without having to look around for all the recipe links that you may have saved in all kinds of different places or trying to find the recipe book that sometimes seems to have a life of its own because it's in a completely different place every single time you try to locate it every time you want to make something nice. Here you can also add your own pictures to your recipes in order to always remember just how good the cake you made for that special occasion looked.

When you feel open for some inspiration and are willing to try out something new, NOM NOM allows you to look around the site and find amazing, diverse recipes that have been shared by other members of our steadily-growing, food-loving community. If you feel like you would like to be surprised today, you can take a look around the recipes that are showcased on our app every day and see where they take you, or, if your mind has already been set on making a specific type of food, you can look for its recipe by using the recipe search function.

NOM NOM is also about sharing your experiences and providing useful feedback to help our community evolve, which is why we encourage you to leave a comment on that recipe you just tried either to encourage its owner by letting them know how great it was, or to kindly provide a constructive feedback on what may not have come out as expected when you tried the recipe, so that they can help you find out what you may have done differently than the recipe had intended, or you can collectively try to figure out what could be improved in the particular recipe so that it gives more joy to the people who might like to try it out in the future.

Please also don't forget to leave a quick feedback on the recipes you have tried by clicking on the 'YAY!' or 'NAY...' buttons, so that the users who look at the recipes can set up more realistic expectations on the recipes before trying them out. Your feedback can let someone know that a recipe is definitely worth trying or do the opposite by helping them save their time in the unlikely event that the recipe is not that successful and might not be worth trying out. We at NOM NOM believe that good food truly brings people closer and makes their life better, so we're definitely hands down for sharing that experience with others!

To find out more about NOM NOM features and learn how to use them, please read the rest of this user guide or use the table of contents to quickly find the topics that interest you the most.

User Profile

When the registration process has been completed and you are happily logged in, it is time to explore the possibilities that being a registered NOM NOM user provides.

To go to your profile page, click on the 'User Profile' button on the left side of the navigation bar. Please make sure that you are logged in, otherwise you will not see this button.

Your profile page is a powerful place where you can add your profile photo (1), overview and edit your recipe collection (2), and change your password (3).

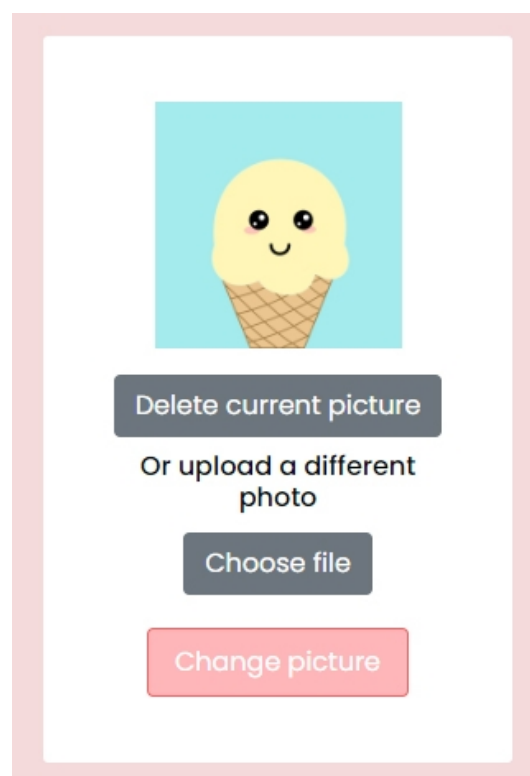

1. Adding or Updating a Profile Photo

This section lets you update your profile by uploading a profile photo. If you don't feel like sharing your pictures with the community, don't worry – your profile will still have a default picture with our lovely avatar in it.

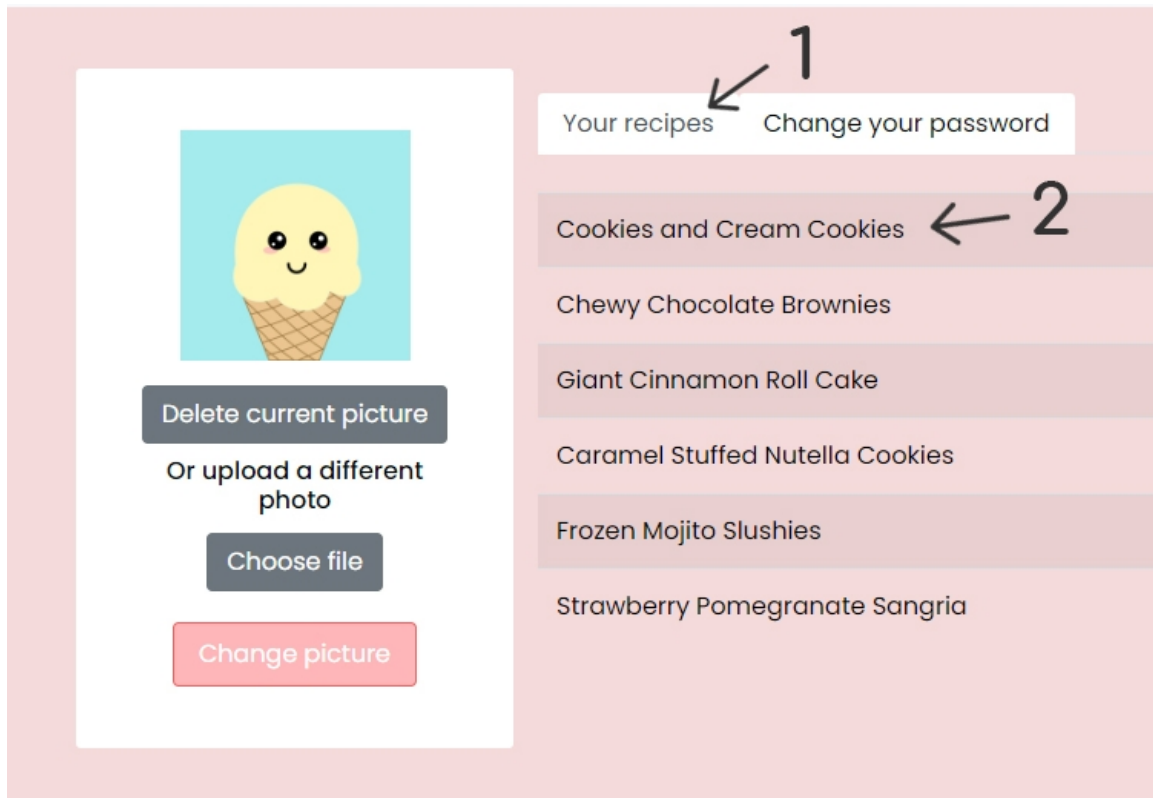

If you do want to upload a picture of your own, please make sure that the picture has square aspect ratio, otherwise it will not be accepted by the system.

If you ever feel tired of your old profile picture, you can either delete it or replace it by uploading a new photo image.

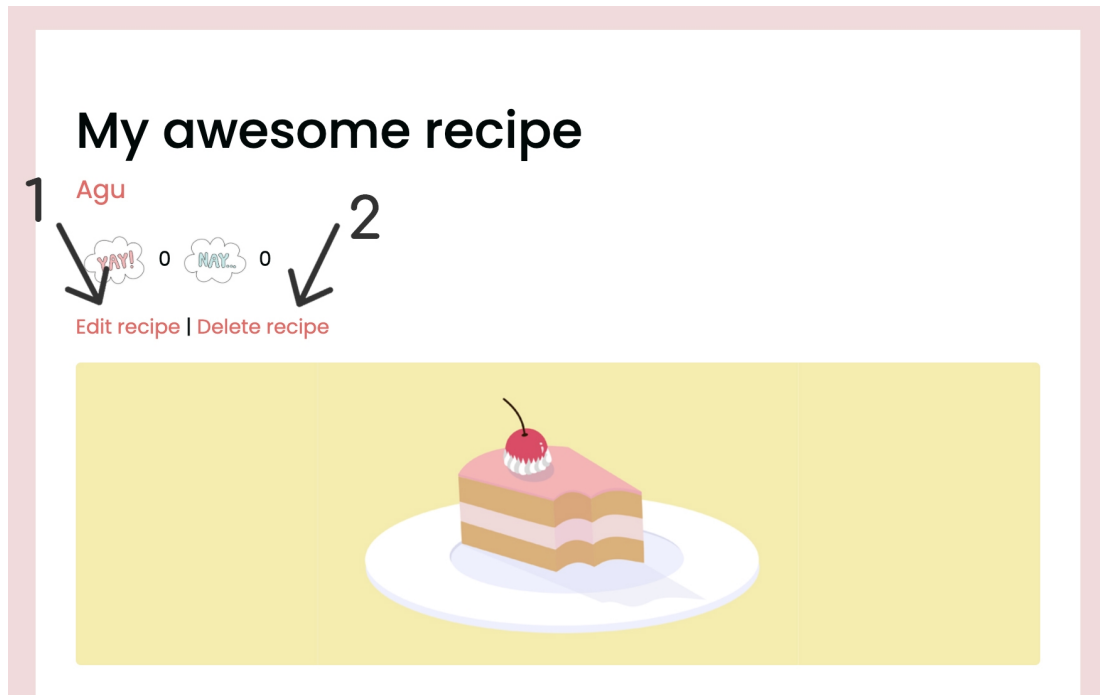

2. Recipe overview and editing

Your User Profile page is also the place where all your recipes get stored when you create them. You can access them by clicking on the 'Your recipes' tab (1).

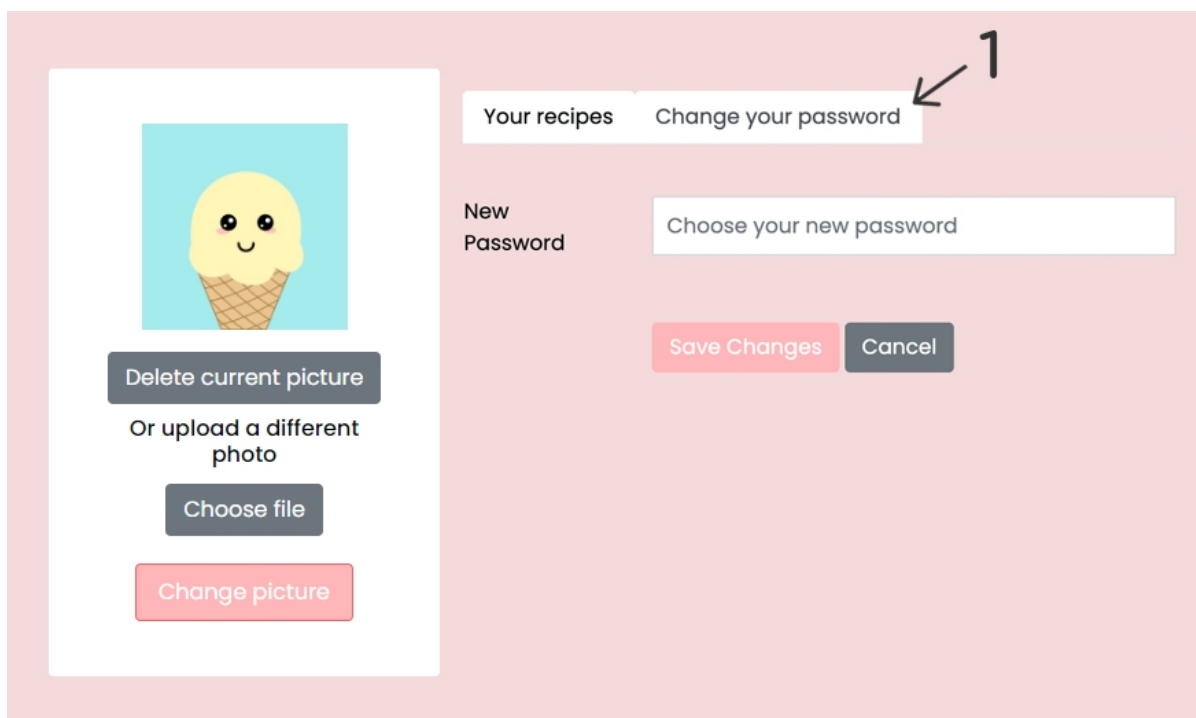

If you ever feel the need to edit a recipe of yours, just find the right recipe on your recipe list and click on its title. Doing so will take you to the recipe page with 'Edit recipe' (1) and 'Delete recipe' (2) buttons on it (please see the image on the next page). Please see more information on the recipe editing and deletion in the 'Edit or Delete a Recipe' section on page 13 of this guide.

3. Changing the password

If you need to change your password, it can be done by clicking on the 'Change your password' tab on your profile page. Just type in the new password and save it.

Add a New Recipe

If you want to store one of your beloved recipes at NOM NOM, click on the 'Create a Recipe' button on the upper right side of the page. Please make sure that you are logged in, otherwise you will not be able to see this button.

Clicking on the 'Create a Recipe' button will take you to the recipe creation page. Here you can add your recipe title (1), upload a nice photo of the expected end-result (2), and add all the necessary ingredients, as well as provide the step-by-step instructions (3) that will allow you and others to easily re-create this recipe.

Below this is a file upload section labeled '2' with a 'Choose File' button and the text 'No file chosen'. The main part of the form is a rich text editor labeled '3' with a toolbar at the top containing undo, redo, heading (H1, H2, H3), bold (B), italic (I), bulleted list, and numbered list icons. The editor has a heading 'Ingredients' and a list of ingredients: 115g salted or unsalted butter, 228g semi-sweet chocolate bars, chopped, 150g granulated sugar, 50g brown sugar, 3 large eggs, 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract, 80g all-purpose flour, 2 tablespoons cocoa powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, and 180g semi-sweet chocolate chips. Your profile page is also the right place to go to if you realize that a recipe of yours needs any kind of additions or alterations.

Edit or Delete a Recipe

As time goes by, you may find some new, special ingredients or tweaks that make your recipes better or realize that something has been added to them by mistake. There's also a chance that you made an incredibly-good looking masterpiece and want to replace the old recipe picture with it. When this happens, you can easily update your recipes as needed by using the recipe editing function on the recipe page (1). The list of your recipes can be accessed from your user profile page. Also, in case you create a recipe by accident and would like to remove it from your recipe list, you can do so by clicking on the 'Delete recipe' button (2) and the recipe will be removed from the list your profile page.

As you click on the 'Edit recipe' button, it will take you to a page that is practically identical to the 'Create a Recipe' page, with the only difference between them being that it will already contain all the information that you added to your recipe upon its creation. Once you have made all the necessary changes, just click on the 'Submit' button and your recipe will be updated.

Search for Recipes

To take a look at other user's recipes or search for a specific recipe, click on the 'All Recipes' button on the menu bar.

This is the place where you can have some fun by freely roaming around and taking a look at all the recipes that are being showcased for you today. Warning – it is very likely that you will leave this place with quite a few new recipe ideas that simply need to be tried out as soon as you get a chance.

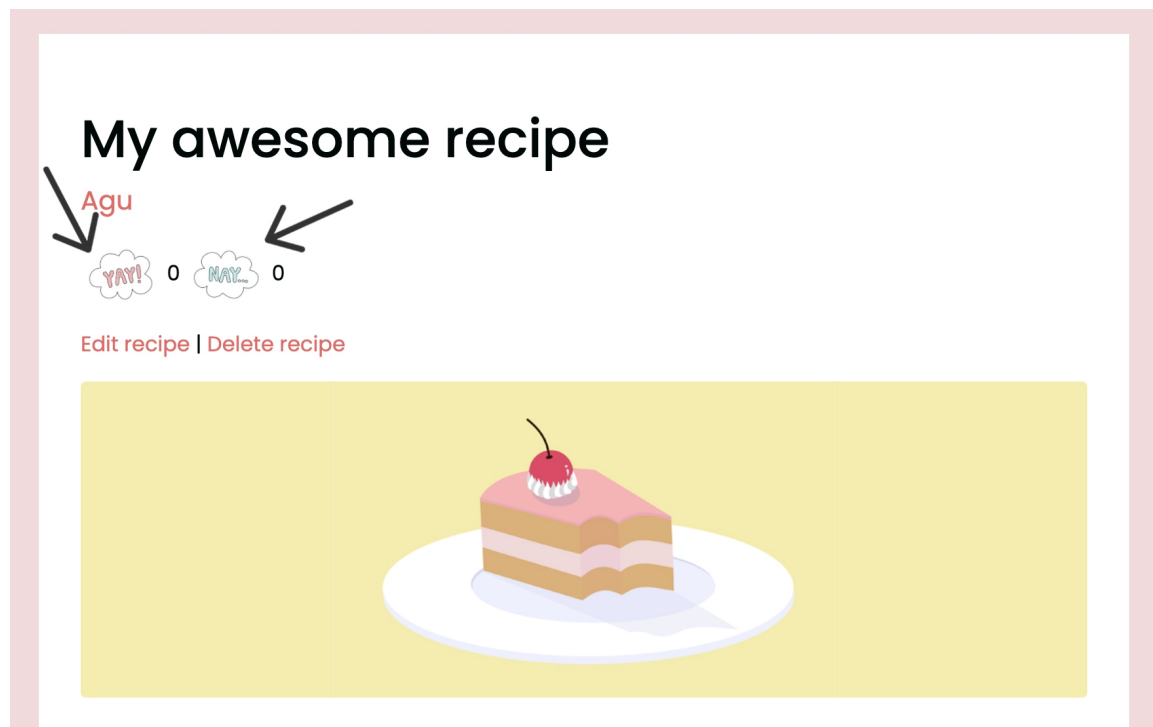

However, some days you may be in a hurry and have the need to find a specific recipe as soon as possible. To do that, just type what you're looking for in the search bar and it will return the results matching your selection.

Leaving Feedback on Recipes

As soon as you have tried out a recipe that was created by another user, please don't hesitate to leave your feedback on it. There are two ways to do that - 'YAY!' and 'NAY...' buttons right under the recipe title and the comment section at the bottom of the recipe page.

'YAY!' and 'NAY' buttons are a fast and easy way to leave your feedback on a recipe, and the statistics of this rating is a great way to quickly let those in rush know if a recipe is good and worth trying out without reading the comment section. We encourage our members to try and always mark this rating on all the recipes they have tried out to help the community identify good recipes more easily.

While the 'YAY!' and 'NAY...' ratings are nice and convenient, sometimes they just aren't enough and you might feel the need to express your thoughts by leaving a comment to a recipe.

Sometimes you will love a recipe so much that you will want to leave a really nice message to its owner or simply let the world know just how absolutely great it was. Other times, you might feel the need to leave a suggestion regarding a possible improvement to the recipe or inform the other users about what may have gone wrong during the cooking process to help them avoid the same mistakes. Please note that the comments should always be polite and constructive. Even if you want to share a negative experience, try to do it so that the comment is useful and may help others without hurting anyone's feelings. Our community is a place where we want everyone to feel comfortable and accepted.
